Extending the retirement ages of civil servants and subsidised organizations has marked resources implications on the government in the future.

Those who still want to contribute to the local people and the community can do volunteer or part-time jobs if they are so devoted.

Otherwise, don't give beautiful reasons to extend, and try to hide all the personal gains. The society should be fair to all workers in the public service. The quality of services will not be affected by the absence of just a minority of the working force.
