

主旨:

Give Views

Comments:

Hong Kong should have population policy by setting the upper limit of the population. We should not only focus on population estimation (just like Hong Kong 2030 Study with very conservative estimation). If we do not have the upper limit, then how to control land demand? With unlimited demand on land supply, that means the Government needs to provide more and more land with higher and higher density. This would lower the living quality.