The new generation is the major part of our future society. In my opinion, family and fertility is the most important area as it is the fundamental part of our future and it will become a vicious circle if we do not have a good foundation. In order to have a better family and fertility, I would have the down below opinions

1.The relationship between jobs and parents

The time and salary of job directly affect the willingness of people to give birth. If a couple cannot earn a living, it will be a disaster for them to have a baby as the baby will become a huge financial burden for them. A couple should have enough money and time to ensure their children have a up-to-standard development. Moreover, working overtime is a commonplace in Hong Kong as most of the people are under the illusion that working hours are proportional to the quantity of works. However, this will jeopardize employees' health and sacrifice the gathering time between parents and children. Therefore I think government should give some welfare for the family which have baby so as to give them living incentive. For instance, a pregnant staff to work overtime, overtime pay should be needed. Moreover, I think efficiency and work-life balance should be emphasized. Let's take Microsoft as an example, they encourage the workers to leave the workplace on time and they do not suffer financially.

2.Education

Education is the fundamental part for the development of a child. Nowadays, many schools implement small class teaching which decrease the enrollment of the students. This directly induce the competition of registration in the schools. Also, many students who finish the HKDSE cannot enter an university and their competitiveness is very low in the society. I think the government should do more to ensure there is enough degree or places for people to study so as to increase their knowledge and competitiveness. Moreover, the children should have a equal chance to compete for a good school instead of having a "first come first serve" system in the registration of the school. All in all family and fertility is an important issue for Hong Kong. The government should not face it with folded arm but curb the deep rooted problem promptly which eventually have a win-win situation.
