Talent and Labour from Outside: The key is we need to attract the talent that Hong Kong is missing. We all understand that the labour force size is dropping but the bigger problem is on the mismatch of demand and supply. All the "new immigrants" have been low skilled workers while the demand has been on high skilled workers. You need to resolve this and the FIRST step is STOP importing the LOW SKILL WORKERS, especially under the single entry permit scheme

On Family and Fertility, if you look carefully, the problem is on the cost and environment of having children in Hong Kong. This is the underlying reason stopping young families from having more children. You need to lower / subsidize the cost of raising children. Also, it is about the environment. The current environment is unhealthy for children development (e.g., compete for baby formula, insufficient primary school, etc.). You need to solve all these infrastructure - stop talking your propaganda ...
